Catheter interventions in congenital, structural and valvar heart disease

RECORDED

Dear Colleagues,

Please join us for CSI Africa 2019 for an overview of the most important catheter therapies in congenital, structural and valvar heart disease in children and adults. CSI Africa is returning in its 6th year to Arusha, Tanzania.

This meeting will provide physicians from the African continent with an opportunity to share knowledge and expertise and network with colleagues, faculty and industry.

The scientific program is designed to address issues and topics specific to the African region. Participants will have the opportunity to gain extremely valuable experience in hands-on echo training workshops.

We will cover the newest techniques, technologies and concepts. Many recorded cases will be presented, and each intervention will be explained step by step. Stay a part of the discussion on the future of cardiovascular interventions on the African continent.

We look forward to seeing you in Arusha on November 29-30, 2019!
